Los Angeles — May 29, 2024 — Faegre Drinker announced today that Josh Anderson has joined the firm's Los Angeles office as partner and leader of the West Coast class actions team for the litigation group. Anderson joins from a national law firm where he was a commercial litigator for nearly 25 years.

Anderson has deep experience in resolving disputes in the insurance, financial services, life sciences and pharmaceutical sectors. He has developed a reputation for consummately handling the defense of class actions and complex, multiparty litigation in federal and state trial courts and on appeal.

“Josh has an extensive litigation background, and his robust skill set is a great addition to our team,” said litigation group leader Debbie Ellingboe. “His experience in financial services litigation, including complex California state law regulatory actions, and litigation in the pharmaceutical industry will benefit many clients.”

“We’re excited to welcome Josh to our L.A. office,” said Los Angeles office leader Pascal Benyamini. “Josh is bringing an enthusiasm for excellent client service and a highly esteemed practice that will add more strength to our litigation services.”

Anderson earned his B.A. from the University of Chicago and his J.D. from UCLA School of Law.
